

Evers were very graceful. But John would have done much better had he thrown his hands in front of a couple of pegs which Archer shot across second base to Tommy Leach in center field. The Cub catcher is given three demerits in the box score. One was a throw from Mitchell which oozed through him, and the other two were pegs in center. There was nothing to do but give Archer errors on these last two plays, but the fault was with Evers or Bridwell, apparently the manager.

The stuff was pulled in the eighth inning. Matty, after accepting a walk, tried a delayed steal of second. Evers and Bridwell were caught asleep, and Archer's shot was stopped by Leach, Matty jogging to third. Then Larry Doyle stole. Again Archer shot to second, about three feet to the right of the bag, and a foot off the ground. Evers did

CHRISTY MATHEWSON.